

Haven't we enough problems haunting the future????
Hello, my name is Danielle Rosenstein. I am from NY and i am 16 years old.
Below is already defaulted information, which will probably sound more formal but if there is a God, if there is a Democracy, and if there is any decency left in anybody please hear what I have to say. :(

As far as anyone obviously knows you all have broken just about every rule the constitution and Anti-Trust laws have set.

Feel free to be all smug about it if you ever pass this ridiculous law because you're not going to be around in your jobs very long anyway and, you'll have lots of money once you've retired so it shouldn't be that big a deal.

But it IS a big deal to everyone else on this planet.

Please. Things have gotten corrupt enough. They've gotten to the point where a random teenage girl has to take time out of her life to write her opinions about you all.

We the US have grown into such a pathetic and disgustingly BB society it's not funny. Are you all just going to sit back laugh and just let it occur? Does your conscience ever shake u at night knowing that you've killed American society?

Apparently not.

You are NOT beyond the choice of taking back this unwise decision. It will not strengthen the market anymore than it will kill society or freedom.

I am writing to you today to comment on Docket No. 02-277, The Biennial Review of the FCC's broadcast media ownership rules. In its goals to promote competition, diversity and localism in today's media market, I strongly believe that the FCC should retain all of the current media ownership rules now in question. These rules serve the public interest by limiting the market power of already huge companies in the broadcast industry.

I do not believe that the studies commissioned by the FCC accurately demonstrate the negative affects media deregulation and consolidation have had on media diversity. While there may be indeed be more sources of media than ever before, the spectrum of views presented have become more limited.

The right to carry on informed debate and discussion of current events is part of the founding philosophy of our nation. Our forefathers believed that democracy was best served by a diverse marketplace of ideas. If the FCC allows our media outlets to merge, our ability to have open, informed discussion with a wide variety of viewpoints will be compromised.

The public interest will best be served by preserving media ownership rules in question in this proceeding.

In addition to the official hearing on this matter in Richmond, VA, I strongly urge the FCC to hold additional hearings elsewhere around the nation to solicit the widest possible participation from the public which will be the most directly affected by the outcomes of these decisions. I think it is important for the FCC to not only consider the points of view of those with a financial interest in this issue, but also those with a social or civic interest.

With the serious impact these rule changes will have on our democracy, it is incumbent on the Commission to take the time to review these issues more thoroughly and allow the American people to have a meaningful say in the process.

Thank you,

Danielle Rosenstein
